“Exquisite Autumn”

The cover image is a digital painting I created in January after the leaves had all fallen and the world had taken on a different hue. I thought it would be a good image for the Fall issue of the CALL Curriculum Guide because it reminds us of the splendor of autumn, and because it’s possible to imagine glorious moments even when our circumstances are very different. Creativity and imagination connect us to God and to each other.

Preface

The members of the CALL Curriculum Committee are pleased to present the Fall 2020 list of courses. Since late March, we have been hard at work to develop both content and the technological wherewithal to deliver the highest quality programs and classes to our members, despite the restrictions posed by COVID-19.

No courses are offered in-person this semester due to the pandemic. We do not have access to the larger room spaces on campus as we had originally hoped, as the University will need them to accomplish social distancing for undergraduate instruction. Instead, all courses will be available live online via Zoom with opportunity for Q&A. Recordings will also be available for those registered in the course. We look forward to rejoining you in person when circumstances allow. It has been our pleasure to serve all of you in the CALL organization.

Wally Bratt          Sherry Levy          Jeanette Sprik
Don Huizinga        Kate Miller        Ray VanderWeele
Pat Knoester        Susan Scherphorn   Gwen Wallin
Arie Leegwater      Russ Slater

I want to thank our staff members, Sonja DeJong and Marjo Jordan, for their support and encouragement in helping to make this a successful program. I also want to thank Ken Bratt for editing and proofreading the document and Paul Stoub for his creativity in designing the catalog for printing.

HELPFUL INSTRUCTIONS

The CALL staff hope to return to campus by late August. While we continue to work from home, we want you to be able to reach us to renew membership, register for courses, or ask a question. The best number to call is 616-526-7917.

There are three ways to register: online, by phone, and through the mail with a check payment. Checks should be made out to CALL, 3201 Burton St SE, Grand Rapids, MI, 49546. Credits can also be applied to a fall course. The course fee remains the same at $30 and registration for classes opens on Monday, August 11, at 12:01 a.m.

Are you hesitant about online learning? Let us assure you that the technology replicates what happens in classrooms everywhere. CALL has a video and frequently asked questions online to orient you to the user-friendly Zoom system. Our board and members of CALL committees have been meeting on Zoom for several months. We invite you to take the plunge! You can Zoom with your computer, laptop, tablet, or smart phone. If grandchildren can complete their school year online, surely, we can master Zoom.

CALL’s course content is as exciting as ever and our Fall classes are sure to entertain, inspire, and pique your curiosity. Despite the disruption of social distancing, we are excited to bring these courses to you another way and we know when you have looked at the courses listed here, you will be, too.

Continue learning, get reacquainted with old friends, make new friends, and stretch the brain to learn a new way of learning... all while staying safe from COVID-19. We WILL meet again!
How do I get the Zoom link to access the class?

All registered students of a course will be emailed a private link to join the online Zoom lecture one week before the course start date. Also, we are sending a courtesy reminder email the day before the class (each class in the series). Please do NOT share the link with anyone. We will only admit those registered into the online lecture.

Can I practice a Zoom link before my class starts?

Yes, we will offer several opportunities in late-August to hear free lectures and try the Zoom link. Look for the dates in the back of this catalog or watch your e-news.

Will classes be recorded?

Yes, we will record the class at a private link so that you can view or review the class at your convenience. Only those registered for the course will receive this link within two days after each course session ends. Please do not share the link with others. The recordings will expire online on December 1.

Subject: literature

Jennifer L. Holberg, leader, is professor of English at Calvin University and has taught many CALL classes. She is also the co-director of the Calvin Center for Faith & Writing.

02-F2020 Electric Vehicles: Charging Ahead

1:30-2:45 p.m., 4 Tuesdays, September 8 to September 29

Join the editor of electricmitten.com on a journey through the history of the electric car from its origin to the present. We will explore all facets of living with an electric vehicle, and how affordable and enjoyable the transition can be. Get charged up about gas-free transportation!

Subject: technology, environment

James Morin, leader, has taught a course previously for us on electric cars in the summer of 2018. In addition, he has often taught Apple courses for the CALL program. He is a trainer for Apple with extensive technical knowledge who loves gadgets and blogging.
With continuing innovative advancements in health care and a worldly emphasis on the value in maintaining our youth, how should we respond? How should we approach day-to-day life, our inevitable aging, and balancing the desire to be young with the reality that indeed, one day we will die? What does healthy aging look like? How can we define “quality of life” when our bodies are reluctant to keep up with our youthful drive, or when our minds begin to cloud? This series will explore what happens as our bodies age: natural physiologic changes with aging; how we should engage the health care system as we age; types of health care resources that we should access (and those we should avoid); and how we can maintain control of our lives when we become sick. Join us for the following sessions:

Session 1: The Inflection Period in Illness: What Happens as our Bodies Age
Session 2: Is 70 the next 40? Maintaining Vitality When We Would Really Like a Nap
Session 3: Dementia, or Just Forgetful? Understanding and Managing Cognitive Decline
Session 4: When Death Is on the Horizon: Health at the End of Life

Subject: health, sociology

John Mulder, leader, was a family practice physician for 17 years before transitioning to palliative care. Dr. Mulder is a leader in the field of palliative care. Improving the quality of life for his patients has always been a matter of service to Dr. Mulder, and his career reflects that. As a nationally recognized authority on end-of-life issues and pain management, Dr. Mulder has become a sought-after speaker on these topics.

04-F2020 Pandemics in History

1:30-2:45 p.m., 4 Wednesdays, September 9 to September 30

What is a pandemic? Is the SARS-Cov2 virus (that causes COVID-19) the first to cause global disruption? This course will trace some of the major pandemic events in history, explore what happened, and draw parallels to what is happening today. Emphasis will be placed on epidemics during the past century, to include the Spanish Flu epidemic of 1918-1919, which is the most like today’s pandemic. The course will conclude with a brief discussion of what many scientists predict will happen with infectious disease epidemics in the future.
Dr. Mark Youngren, leader, has been an Adjunct Professor for over 30 years, most recently at Grand Valley State University and Aquinas College. He has graduate training in epidemiology and infectious diseases from the Army and from the Grand Valley University. His PhD dissertation in epidemiological history discusses the effects of epidemic disease in history, with an emphasis on military conflicts.

05-F2020 The 2020 Presidential Election: A Turning Point in American History?

3:15-4:30 p.m., 4 Wednesdays, September 9 to September 30

The 2020 presidential election may well represent an important turning point in American history, as both the Democratic and Republican parties are likely to be altered in significant ways based on the outcome of this election. This course will examine why the 2020 election is so pivotal to both political parties, and how the election will likely shape the future of each party and the future direction of American politics. Attention will be given to the changing makeup of the American electorate, the changing relationship between the American people and its political parties, and how voters, party rules, and election rules will shape the outcome of the nomination battle and election process.

Session 1: The 2020 Presidential Election in Context
Session 2: The Changing Nature of American Politics
Session 3: Political Campaigns, Party Rules, and the Electoral College
Session 4: The 2020 Election and the Future of American Parties and Politics

Subject: politics

Corwin Smidt, leader, is a professor emeritus of Political Science and a Research Fellow of the Henry Institute at Calvin College. He is the author, editor, or co-author/co-editor of over fifteen books and has published extensively in a variety of scholarly journals. He is the Past President of the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion and a founding member of the Religion and Politics section of the American Political Science Association, serving several terms on the section’s executive council and once as its Executive Director.
For many, being Frisian is synonymous with being stubborn. But are Frisians only single-minded? During the past two millennia there have been various people called Frisians; all have shown adaptability, resourcefulness, and a passion for liberty. This class will examine these people: their Germanic roots; their responses to human and natural invasions; their earned reputation of being feared and admired by both allies and enemies; and their conversion to Christianity (who since the 9th century have had a dedicated chapel/church in Rome). Frisian dedication to freedom was such that their lands were the only ones in Northern Europe where feudalism did not take hold. We will also review such topics as cattle raising, terp building, language and literature, maintaining a unique identity, and such Frisians as Everett Dirksen, Menno Simons, Mati Hari, Piers Gerlofs Donia, and Alvin Plantinga, to mention a few.

Subject: history

Dick Harms, leader, is a historian and former Curator of Archives at Calvin University

Anxiety is a normal aspect of the human experience. Healthy anxiety helps us understand and interpret threats in our world. When anxiety goes awry, however, it can interfere with our ability to appreciate life and our relationships with those close to us. In this class participants will study the physiology of anxiety, examine the types and symptoms, and discover ways to manage it.

Subject: psychology

Pat Latus-Kennedy, leader, is a veteran educator and trained school counselor. She uses her training and education in psychology, health, sociology, and Hakomi psychotherapy to develop a stress management class that focuses on the social, emotional, physical, cognitive, and neurological components of stress awareness and management.
Session II: October 19-November 24

08-F2020 Reconstruction: Shackled Liberty

*1:00-2:15 p.m., 5 Mondays, October 19 – November 16 (please note time and day)

Northern victory in the American Civil War crushed the blight of slavery that, from the beginning, had prevented the United States from achieving the aspirations of the Founding Fathers. Great hope for a new birth of freedom deepened with the passage of the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments while Southerners capitalized on Northerners' gradually growing desires to build the nation's wealth and explore acquiring overseas territories. The focused pursuit of power by white supremacists and the diminishing commitment of the North to maintain the Civil War's hard-won victories doomed Reconstruction and guaranteed strife in the 20th century.

Subject: history

Fred L. Johnson III, leader, is a professor of history at Hope College. His primary field of study is the American Civil War. Along with teaching the history of U.S. foreign policy, his other specialty areas include U.S. military history, 20th Century U.S. and Africa.

09-F2020 Greek Mythology Part 2: Heroes of the Greeks

3:15-4:30 p.m., 4 Mondays, October 26 to November 16 (please note day)

At the center of ancient Greek literature and art are the stories of heroes who struggle with immortal beings and the greatest challenges of human life. In this course we will briefly survey some of the major Greek heroes, their prominence in ancient works of art & literature, and their enduring significance to this day – especially for artists, writers, and psychologists.

Session 1: Homer’s greatest heroes of the Trojan War: Achilles and Odysseus
Session 2: The Superhuman Labors of Heracles and Theseus
Session 3: Legends of Thebes: Oedipus and his family
Session 4: Legends of Mycenae: Agamemnon and his family

Subject: mythology

Ken Bratt, leader, is professor of classics, emeritus, and former director of the Honors Program at Calvin University.
10-F2020 Creating Memoir

1:00–3:00 p.m., 6 Tuesdays, October 20– November 24 (please note time)
You have experienced a lot. Have you been thinking about writing the stories of your life? Have your siblings, children, or grandchildren urged you to fill in the details of family legends? If so, please consider joining a small group of like-minded people, learning by writing weekly assignments or by continuing an ongoing writing project.

Each two-hour session is run like a workshop that contains instruction, gentle critique of your work, and encouragement from other writers. Both beginning and continuing writers are welcome to join this lively group, limited to 12 people.

The class text is Writers in the Spirit: Inspiration for Christian Writers (FaithWalk), which was written by the instructor and is available at the Calvin University Campus Store.

Subject: writing

Carol Rottman, leader, is an experienced writer and educator.

11-F2020 Traditional Chinese Medicine

3:15 – 4:30 p.m., 4 Tuesdays, October 20 – November 10
This course will introduce and discuss the basic theories of Traditional Chinese Medicine, such as “Yin and Yang.” The course will cover respiratory diseases, neurological disorders, gynecological issues, and cancer support. You also will learn some acupressure points that you can do at home to help yourself.

Subject: health

Zhiqun Zhou, leader, is a retired Doctor of Chinese Medicine/Acupuncturist. She is a graduate of Shanghai Second Medical College and is a recipient of “Madam Curie Bursary” in China. She has taught acupressure classes for twenty years in West Michigan, and will demonstrate for you the acupoints for Face Lifts, Insomnia, Headaches, Toothache, Eye issues, Abdominal pain, Cramps, Depression and Anxiety, etc.
12-F2020 Virtual Reformation Tour part II

1:30-2:45 p.m., 4 Wednesdays, October 21 – November 11

Back in 2018, Karin Maag offered a virtual tour of Reformation Europe sites in Germany, Switzerland, and Scotland. This fall join other CALL members in exploring Reformation sites in Scandinavia, England, and Eastern Europe - and still sleep in your own bed at night! Classes will offer a mix of lecture, video, and discussion. Come learn more about the roots of Scandinavian Lutherans, Anglicans in England, and a mix of Lutherans, Calvinists, and Anti-Trinitarians in Poland, Bohemia, and Hungary.

- Session 1: Scandinavia
- Session 2: England
- Session 3: Eastern Europe part I
- Session 4: Eastern Europe part II

Subject: history

Dr. Karin Maag, leader, is the director of the Meeter Center for Calvin Studies at Calvin University. She has taught for CALL since 2000. Her area of specialty is the Reformation.

13-F2020 C. S. Lewis’s Surprised by Joy: The Shape of My Early Life

3:15-4:30 p.m., 4 Wednesdays, October 21 to November 11

This spiritual autobiography brings to life the ways Lewis’s early life shaped him and brought him from being “a devout atheist” to becoming a Christian. He introduces us to his unusual upbringing, including losing his mother at a young age and suffering from his father’s subsequent depression.

Most compelling are his descriptions of his mental, emotional, and spiritual struggles along the way. Seeing how God used unlikely means to bring “the most dejected and reluctant convert in all of England” to faith amazes us as readers.

This book delights and challenges readers as we ourselves relate to his unusual experiences, as Lewis expresses the core humanity we share. Surprised by Joy: The Shape of My Early Life, ISBN 978-0062565433, is available in the Calvin University Campus Store.

Subject: literature

Lisa Bouma Garvelink, leader, learned to love books early, including C. S. Lewis’s Chronicles of Narnia. A full professor at Kuyper College for twelve years, she now teaches literature part-time at the college while spending most of her time in volunteer ministry activities.
14-F2020 Dutch Immigration: It Was Much More Than West Michigan
1:30-2:45 p.m., 4 Thursdays, October 22 to November 12
This course covers the continued research of the history of American immigration, especially Dutch immigration. Dutch immigrants are a big part of West Michigan’s history. But the full Dutch story is even bigger. We will look at the early Dutch immigration to the Hudson River Valley in the 1600s, the communities that grew on the Great Plains and in the Far West after the Civil War, and the enclaves that thrived in the Northeastern United States that began as way stations for the Dutch immigrants who came to Michigan.

Subject: history
Robert Schoone-Jongen, leader, is associate professor of history, emeritus, at Calvin University. He continues to research the history of American immigration, especially Dutch immigration.

15-F2020 The Peculiar Passion of Jesus in the Gospel of John
3:15-4:30 p.m., 4 Thursdays, October 22 to November 12
The Gospel of John offers a unique portrait of Jesus’ life and ministry distinct from the synoptic gospels. This independent picture carries over to the Passion narrative in John’s presentation of Jesus’ death and the purpose of the cross. This course will examine John 18-21 for the theological symbolism, so typical of John’s style, to appreciate the depth of meaning in the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus. Specifically, John views the crucifixion of Jesus as establishing a new presence of God on earth which shifts from a building to the person of Jesus and then to the community of believers.

Subject: biblical studies
Daniel Kroeze, leader, is a professor of biblical studies at Kuyper College. The Dead Sea Scrolls were part of his doctoral research at the University of Wisconsin. He is ordained in the RCA and currently serving as the Teaching Pastor at Newhall Community Church in Wyoming.

Restore the Rapids

Grand Rapids profited from the booming logging industry following the Civil War, and the timber flowing down the river helped establish “Furniture City” in the late 1800s. Damming the river helped make Grand Rapids a thriving city then but the time has come for a riverfront engineered to serve the present-day needs of all Grand Rapidians.

Begin your Zentangle journey this fall with Zoom!

Let me introduce you to a relaxing, enjoyable hobby in your own home. Anyone can Zentangle since the focus is on the process and there are no mistakes in Zentangle! Artists and those of us who can only draw stick figures, enjoy the journey, and soon you will be sharing what you have learned with others. Please prepare for your experience by having a fine point black pen, heavy.

<td>A great deal has changed since a group of fifty-five men gathered in Philadelphia in the summer is 1787 to draft the U.S. Constitution. In this lecture we will consider the fate of three features of the Constitution that were then thought crucial but are now seen by many as obsolete or unwise.</td>

<td>Why does narcissism seem to thrive in our churches? It’s easy to throw the term around and diagnose others from afar. But what is narcissism, really? And how does it infiltrate the church? In this lecture, Chuck DeGroat takes a close look at narcissism, not only in ministry leaders but also in church systems. He offers compassion and hope for those affected by its destructive power and imparts wise counsel for churches looking to heal from its systemic effects.</td>

Many 2020 trips have been rescheduled for 2021 and you have a second opportunity to travel with several excellent tour leaders. Due to the number of rescheduled trips, we have only added two new trips for 2021—Croatia with Ken Bratt and Montreal/Quebec with Karin Maag. The best way to find out details for any of these trips is to join the interest list by emailing call@calvin.edu and specifying which trip(s) you have interest in. Persons on our interest lists receive the latest information and opening registration dates as soon as they become available.
