On Assignment: Alaska
Thursday, March 12, 2020

Rich Reid: Traversing Alaska is like stepping back in time, not only with nature but the fascinating cultures that inhabit its coastline. Totem poles that have withstood the test of time stand tall with pride in the temperate rainforest, representing spirits from the past. A pod of killer whales glide alongside our ship in placid waters and a brown bear feeds in the inner tidal zone of Glacier Bay National Park. A breaching whale, calving glacier, aromatic wildflowers, towering mountains, and lush green forests are some of what Alaska has in store for us. With his entertaining narrative, intertwining images, and short films covering Alaska’s vast landscapes and fascinating flora and fauna, professional photographer Rich Reid will bring you along on some of his most memorable Alaskan assignments.

The Road to Namibia
Tuesday, April 28, 2020

Rick Ray: Travel in Namibia is truly unlike travel anywhere else on earth. Known as the land of endless horizons, the vast distances and epic landscapes of this country leave you in awe at every turn. Beginning in the beautiful city of Cape Town, we journey north into the deserts, wild coastline, and fabulous safari parks of Namibia to see vast wildlife herds on the move. From there, our film travels along the famed “Skeleton Coast”, the Cape Cross seal colony, and the massive sand dunes near Swakopmund. Adding cultural depth to our travels, we spend time with the mysterious Himba tribes and end our adventures at the famed Victoria Falls, swimming with crocodiles. Join us to a land of endless beauty.
