The Paul B. Henry Institute will hold its eleventh biennial Symposium on Religion and Public Life from April 7-9, 2022, at the Prince Conference Center on the campus of Calvin University. The Symposium provides opportunities to present research, foster personal and professional collaboration, and learn from thoughtful practitioners. Symposium attendance is open to anyone interested in the intersection of religion and public life. We invite you to join us at the Symposium and in Grand Rapids and West Michigan, both hot-spots to visit, with a vibrant art scene, brewery culture, and lakeshore attractions.

SPECIAL EVENTS

The Symposium will celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Paul B. Henry Institute for the Study of Christianity and Politics. We hope to have several sessions and special guests commemorating the work done by Paul Henry and the initiatives and efforts that have spanned the Institute’s existence.

The Symposium is open to all scholars and practitioners, and will include the 2022 annual Henry Lecture, featuring Richard Mouw, former President of Fuller Seminary, Director of Fuller’s Institute of Faith and Public Life, philosopher, and now a Senior Research Fellow for the Henry Institute.

CALL FOR PRESENTATIONS

Participation at the Henry Symposium is open to scholars across the disciplines, including political science, sociology, history, economics, international relations, philosophy, geography, religious studies, and development studies. If you’re interested in presenting a paper or organizing a panel, submit a maximum 500-word proposal by January 15, 2022. The proposal should include a paper/panel title, a brief description of the focus of the presentation (one to three paragraphs), your institutional affiliation, and your contact information, including an email address. Notification of accepted proposals will be no later than February 1, 2022. Submit proposals
Please note that no funding is available through the Henry Institute to subsidize travel, housing or registration fees.

The Henry Symposium is also being held in conjunction with the Kuyper Conference, which will precede the Symposium. Both the symposium and the conference will take place at the Prince Conference Center. Discounted registration for both events is available and more information about the Kuyper Conference (April 5-7, 2022) is available at the Kuyper Conference website.
