Henry Luttikhuizen

Henry Luttikhuizen received his Ph.D. from the University of Virginia and is an Emeritus Professor of Art History at Calvin University. He is a specialist in Dutch art, 1400-1700, and has co-authored a couple of textbooks. In addition, Luttikhuizen has curated numerous exhibitions and has served as the President of the Midwest Art Society and as the President of the American Association of Netherlandic Studies. His interest in the visual arts is closely linked to his desire to learn more about the cultural beliefs and practices of others. To his understanding, art not only reflects how people think about themselves and the world but more importantly, it helps give shape to the ways in which we live. During the spring 2022 semester he is teaching a Semester at Sea program beginning in southern Italy and ending in northern Germany this year.

October 2022
7, FRIDAY
Depart // Morgan Library and Museum

Today we meet at the airport for our flight to New York City. Upon arrival, we gather our bags and take a bus into the city. There will be some time for an independent lunch before we visit the Morgan Library and Museum. This museum started from the personal collection of J.P. Morgan and is a combination of art, literature, manuscripts, and architecture. We anticipate Henry will be able to lead the tour through the museum. After our tour, hope to stay for their Friday Night Happy Hour. Live music begins at 5 pm, and you can walk back through the galleries at your own pace. On display along with the permanent collection will be the Ashley Bryan & Langston Hughes: Sail Away exhibit. This exhibition concentrates on Ashley Bryan’s 2015 book where he paired his illustrations with poems by Langston Hughes. Afterward, we have a group welcome dinner. (D)

8, SATURDAY
Central Park // Times Square // Broadway

After our long day yesterday, we have a relaxed morning before we head to Central Park. Spectacular in any season, the fall foliage will be starting to show as we have time to explore the park. You can go for a hike, people watch, grab a coffee at the Boathouse, see Belvedere Castle, or simply meander through one of the city’s most well-known sites. From there we head to Times Square, where we see the lights and have time for an independent lunch. Meeting back together, we see an afternoon matinee of a Broadway show. (B)

9, SUNDAY
The Met Cloisters // The Met

What better place to spend Sunday morning than at the Met Cloisters. The building was created to resemble the covered walkways providing access between an open courtyard and its surrounding monastic buildings. The Met: Cloisters is America’s only museum dedicated to medieval art. From there we head to the Metropolitan Museum of Art; known the world over as the Met. Henry will lecture on what we will see at each museum on the bus ride to the museums. There will be time for an independent lunch at one of the museum’s cafes. The evening is at leisure. (B)

10, MONDAY
Ellis Island // 9/11 Memorial & Museum

This morning we head to the Battery for our ferry cruise to Ellis Island. New York Harbor was the first stop for the 12 million immigrants that were processed through the island while it was an immigration center. Today this center is now the Ellis Island National Museum of Immigration, and we’ll learn the history of immigration through the Ellis Island processing center from 1892 to 1954. After our visit, we head to the Tribeca area for an independent lunch. Tribeca has more restaurants per capita than anywhere else in the city. It is also conveniently located near the 9/11 Memorial & Museum. After our sobering visit to the museum, we head out to Staten Island for a one-of-a-kind group dinner. Enoteca Maria/Nonnas of the World serves family recipes cooked by grandmothers from across the globe. Each night is a different cuisine based on the country your vetted grandmother chef is from. (B, D)

11, TUESDAY
The Museum of Modern Art

The Museum of Modern Art or MoMA is dedicated to modern and contemporary art. This museum highlights the work from the last 150 years through what our contemporaries are creating to explore ideas and issues of our time. In addition to the permanent collection, two special exhibits will be up Wolfgang Tillmans: To Look Without Fear and Just Above Midtown 1974 to the Present. We hope to arrange a visit with a film curator here. After our visit, the rest of the day is at leisure. A few blocks from the museum are St. Patrick’s Cathedral and Rockefeller Center if you’re interested. (B)

12, WEDNESDAY
The Whitney Museum of American Art

Today we visit the Whitney Museum of American Art. Here we see the stunning new building designed by Renzo Piano and the collections dedicated to American art from twentieth-century and contemporary artists. Henry will introduce the museum and its themes on the way to the museum. After our visit we have a late farewell lunch. Then the day is free to enjoy your last night on the town. (B, L)

13, THURSDAY
The Frick Collection // Return

This morning we load our things on the bus and head to the Frick Collection where we see the last masterpieces of our tour—works ranging from the Renaissance to the early twentieth century. On our way to the museum, Henry will lecture about the collection. After our visit, there is time for an independent lunch and possibly a stroll in Central Park before we transfer to the airport for our return flights. (B)
