The average pool owner can spend up to a hundred hours in a summer solely for maintenance: but can this be minimized? The goal of project APMS (automated pool transfer system) is to design a system that can replace a significant aspect of pool maintenance: diagnosing and treating pools to ideal regulatory chemical levels, ensuring a controlled safe environment while mitigating chemical waste.