The Abundant Harvest

The harvest is plentiful and diverse, colorful and delicious, a rainbow of delight. The fruits and vegetables of the Spirit are love, joy, peace, forbearance, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control.

COURSE OFFERINGS AND DESCRIPTIONS

Session I: September 3–October 10

01-F2024 Early Modern Fashion
10:00–11:30 a.m., 1 Monday, September 9
In-person
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $10

The early 20th century saw massive changes in social norms, exciting innovation in science and engineering, and a growing interest in the avant-garde in all the arts. In this presentation, Dr. Eberle will explore how these changes informed fashion, and how key designers like Paul Poiret and Coco Chanel helped create a dynamic sartorial image of “the new, modern woman” during the first 25 years of this new century. We will particularly examine how these designers were influenced by radical fine art movements such as Fauvism and Cubism and were driven by new technology and WWI to re-define the female fashion silhouette.

Subject: history

Suzanne Eberle, Ph.D., is a professor emerita of art history at Kendall College of Art & Design, where she taught for 41 years. Her areas of specialization include modern and contemporary art, as well as aesthetic issues related to the human body, including the history of fashion. She serves on the art advisory and education committees of Frederik Meijer Gardens & Sculpture Park, and on the art advisory council of Notre Dame’s Raclin Murphy Museum of Art.

10:00–11:15 a.m., 4 Tuesdays, September 10–October 1
In-person
Room: School of Business 103, $40

In this four-week course, we will focus on art produced after the Baby Boom, from 1965-1980. We will not only address how modernist paintings, photographs, and sculptures look, but more importantly, why these works look the way they do. Special attention will be given to art produced in the United States during this timeframe. However, European art will also receive attention.

Session 1: Pop Art
Session 2: Post-Minimalism, Conceptual Art, and Earthworks
Session 3: Art and Activism
Session 4: Photo-Realism, Bad Painting, and the New Image

Subject: art history
Henry Luttikhuizen is a professor of art history emeritus at Calvin University. A distinguished scholar, he has served as president of the Midwest Art History Society and as president of the American Association of Netherlandic Studies. Luttikhuizen has lectured on Dutch art and culture across the United States. In his presentations he enhances understanding through clarity and humor. He is committed to the notion that knowledge begins in wonder, and he lectures in a playful manner that encourages his audiences to re-imagine the past as they engage with the present and consider new possibilities. He currently serves as a scholar-in-residence at Grand Valley State University.

03-F2024 America’s Wake-up Call: Our Many Divisions and Our Role as Global Peacemakers

10:00–11:15 a.m., 2 Tuesdays, September 10–17
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $20

This two-part course will begin by discussing how the Soviet Union began to collapse in the 1970s and 1980s, and how leading Russian scholars called for radical change (“perestroika:” restructuring). They called for the need to develop a spirit of repentance and a willingness to rebuild the moral foundations of their society. Our country’s Founders had similar concerns, and they struggled with how to reconcile democracy and capitalism, with some missing pieces: public honesty and civility. Can people of faith in the United States help to unify our country and encourage human flourishing and “justice for all”?

The second class period will discuss whether the United States and its political leadership is running out of time for its “holiday from history.” Americans need to relearn much of what they unlearned about foreign policy and national security since the Berlin Wall came down. Two “wake-up calls” – one by Nicholas Eberstadt, “Lessons for an Unserious Superpower,” and a second by Fareed Zakaria, “The Self-Doubting Superpower” – offer helpful suggestions. Following our CALL courses on the Russian-Ukrainian war in the last two years, we will consider whether the United States can be a peacemaker in that war and, if so, what might that role be?

04-F2024 Telling Stories in the Dark: Grief, Trauma, and Pain

12:30–1:45 p.m., 4 Tuesdays, September 10–October 1
In-person
Room: Seminary 241, $40

This four-week course looks at themes dealt with in the instructor’s recent book of the same name, which tells stories of individuals who have experienced significant trauma but have transformed their pain into something redemptive. The first session will focus on the stewardship of pain and what it means to transform instead of transmit pain, the second session on trauma and what happens to our brains during a traumatic event, the third session on dementia and what it means to guard another’s personhood, and the fourth session on living with lament and creating beauty from brokenness.

The required reading, Telling Stories in the Dark: Finding healing and hope in sharing our sadness, grief, trauma, and pain, ISBN 978-1641801782, is available at the Calvin University Campus Store or online.

05-F2024 London Calling: The History of a Global City

12:30–1:45 p.m., 4 Tuesdays, September 3–24
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $40

London is one of the world’s great cities. This class examines how London evolved from a small ancient settlement on the River Thames to become a sprawling metropolis of over eight million people. Class one will explore Roman, Anglo-Saxon, and medieval London — a town of monks and merchants. Class two will examine the destruction and renewal of the old city after the “Great Fire,” and then trace the emergence of a new royal, political, and religious center up-river at “Westminster.” Class three will trace the contradictions of Victorian London: a grand imperial city but also an unruly urban conurbation wracked with poverty, disease, and crime. Class four will tell the story of modern London. Despite Nazi bombardment, terrorism, and economic, racial, and social tensions, the city emerged by the early twenty-first century as one of the world’s most diverse and important global, cultural, and economic hubs.

In-person and online

This course will feature lectures, short readings, video clips, and discussion.

07-F2024 Straddling Two Hemispheres: The History of Ecuador from New World to Now
2:15–3:30 p.m., 3 Tuesdays, September 17–October 1
Online
Room: Zoom, $30

This course will spend the first two class periods reviewing the history of Ecuador, from pre-colonial indigenous rule in the early 16th century to the late 20th century, explaining the introduction of Spanish rule, independence, and the resulting oppressive systems of “concertaje” and “huasipungo” on the indigenous people. The final class period will cover the response to this history by Life Giving Water International (LGWI), an organization which, through its engineering and development responses, facilitates the construction of water distribution systems in rural communities in Ecuador. Calvin University has played a vital role in this work, most recently through several studies completed by faculty and staff in conjunction with the Clean Water Institute at Calvin University. LGWI and its preceding organization (HCJB) have been responding to rural, largely indigenous communities’ needs for clean water supply for 40 years.

Subject: history, engineering

Mark De Haan worked as a consulting engineer in Grand Rapids for seven years before moving to Ecuador, where he currently lives and works, designing water distribution systems and interacting with rural community members to share the love of Jesus Christ. In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $30

The 2024 presidential election may well represent an important turning point in American history. This course will examine why the 2024 election is pivotal to both political parties, and how the election will likely shape the future of each party as well as the future direction of American politics. Attention will be given to the changing makeup of the American electorate, the changing relationship between the American people and its political parties, and how voters, party rules, and election rules shape the outcome of the nomination battle and the election process.

10-F2024 Climate Change: A Different Perspective
1:00–2:15 p.m., 4 Wednesdays, September 4–25
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium (final class will be in the Seminary Chapel), $40

Climate change refers to long-term shifts in temperatures and weather patterns. According to the United Nations, human activities have been the main cause of climate change, due primarily to the burning of fossil fuels like coal, oil, and gas.

Although climate change is real and has been occurring since the earth first had an atmosphere, questions remain about how much of the changes are due to the release of carbon dioxide (CO2). We will look at the role of CO2 in the atmosphere, the computer models that are responsible for the crisis scenarios suggested by many scientists and politicians, the reliability of past temperature records, and whether storms, droughts, and floods are becoming more severe. Much in this class may be new to you and will be quite different than what you hear in mainstream media. This course is intended to offer both a different view and encourage respectful debate.

Session 1: Are we really in an existential crisis?
Session 2: We are getting warmer, but by how much?
Session 3: Is weather becoming more severe?
Session 4: Q&A, and we will view a recent movie about the climate.

Subject: climate change

Craig James has been interested in weather and climate ever since he was quite young. After four years in the Air Force as a weather observer, the GI Bill paid for his bachelor’s degree in meteorology from Penn State University. He became chief meteorologist at WZZM-TV in Grand Rapids in 1973 and then at WOOD-TV in 1985.
He was chosen to be a Centennial Fellow at the College of Earth and Mineral Sciences at Penn State in 1996 "in recognition of distinguished achievements that bring honor to the university." He was also chosen to be a fellow of the American Meteorological Society in 2006. Since his retirement in 2008, he has served as an expert witness in weather-related trials and has presented numerous talks on global warming.

11-F2024 Fall Gardening

1:00–2:15 p.m., 3 Wednesdays, September 25–October 9
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium (second class will be in the Seminary Chapel), $30

Fall is one of the best times for gardening. Not only do cooler temperatures make it easier for gardeners to spend more time laboring over their plants, but the mild weather also provides the best environment for new growth. Join West Michigan celebrity Rick Vuyst in this three-week course that lays out easy-to-follow suggestions on how to capitalize on this opportune time to enhance your garden in the spring.

- Session 1: A kick in the plants. Rediscover the joy of gardening. Maintain your sense of humus. It is less work and more lifestyle.
- Session 2: You are in for a root awakening. It is not a figleaf of your imagination why the most successful gardeners focus on the fall season.
- Session 3: Stem-ulating suggestions for plant material. Plant-alizing ideas for your garden.

Subject: nature

America's humiliating withdrawal from Vietnam in 1975 heightened doubts about the nation's ability to resist the further spread of global communism. Adrift and burdened with doubts regarding its position as leader of the free world, new global challenges were met by a revived United States that summoned the determination to achieve Cold War total victory while confronting emerging threats as the 21st Century dawned.

Session 1: 1975–1982, Emerging from Vietnam's Shadow: By December 1982, revolution in Iran and the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan forced the realization that, limitations notwithstanding, the United States still had to win the Cold War while confronting a new brand of tyranny.

Session 2: 1982–1985, The Enemy of My Enemy: A disaster in Lebanon proved that the United States had much to learn in fighting agents of a new terror, while in the Caribbean and Central America the mission of containing communism continued with mixed results.

Session 3: 1985–1990, Berlin: When the Berlin Wall finally fell in 1989, it promised hope for the people of Germany, foreshadowed the demise of the Soviet Union, and led to talk of a “peace dividend” for the world. Then came reality.

Session 4: 1990–1995, Reclamation of Power: Simmering tensions in Rwanda flared into all-out genocide, while an Iraqi invasion of Kuwait opened the way for the United States to prove that the lessons of Vietnam had been thoroughly studied and remembered.

Session 5: 1995–2002, Malevolence: A jaw-dropping act of terror focused the rage and might of the United States onto a malevolence that had been aching to do battle and then got its wish as an express ticket into eternity.

Subject: history

Fred L. Johnson III is a professor of history at Hope College. His primary field of study is the American Civil War. Along with teaching the history of U.S. foreign policy, his other specialty areas include Africa, the U.S. military, and 20th Century U.S.
13-F2024 "Fellow Immigrants:” How America Became American
10:00–11:15 a.m., 4 Thursdays, September 5–26
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $40

Since 1492 the Americas have been a magnet for people from the Eastern Hemisphere. Since Jamestown and Plymouth Rock in the early seventeenth century, North America has experienced the interacting of native peoples and newcomers that forms a major part of the history of the United States. People encountered each other, clashed with each other, redefined each other, and redefined themselves in a complicated story that showed the best and the worst in human nature and everything in between. This course will look at what immigration has meant to the United States, both in the past and today.

Subject: history

Robert Schoone-Jongen is an associate professor of history emeritus at Calvin University who continues to research and teach about the topics of immigration and the American presidency. He has published articles on the history of American immigration, especially Dutch immigration to New Jersey and Minnesota. His most recent courses for CALL included White House Wives; Dutch Immigration; Big Business, Big Money, Big Power; and the 1619 Project.

14-F2024 Does the Church Need Preaching?
12:30–1:45 p.m., 4 Thursdays, September 5–26
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $40

Why do we listen to sermons? Where did sermons come from? How has preaching managed to survive across so many centuries and in so many cultures? Most Christians listen to at least one sermon every week. But what is a sermon? How does it relate to the Bible, and how does the Holy Spirit work through the 354 million new sermons that are preached every year?

The course will focus on the claim that the Spirit of God likes to work through the Word preached. We will explore the mystery of preaching and the ways in which the Bible and the sermons that are preached from it continue to surprise us.

The optional book, Why We Listen to Sermons, part of the “Calvin Shorts” series (ISBN 978-1937555344), is available at the Calvin University Campus Store or online.

Session 1: Sermons Yesterday, Today, and Is There a Tomorrow?
Session 2: Seeing Yourself Inside the Sermon
Session 4: “I Didn’t Know That Was in There!” The Always Surprising Bible.
Scott Hoezee is an ordained pastor in the Christian Reformed Church of North America. He served two Michigan congregations from 1990-2005 and since 2005 has been a faculty member at Calvin Theological Seminary in Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he serves chiefly as the director of The Center for Excellence in Preaching. He is the author of several books and is the co-host of the “Groundwork” radio program.

15-F2024 Thunder and Wind: Music for Organ and Percussion

12:30–1:45 p.m., 2 Thursdays, October 3–10
In-person
Room: Calvin Chapel (wk1), various buildings (wk2), $20

Thunder & Wind is the duo of Carolyn Koebel (percussion) and Rhonda Sider Edgington (organ), a West Michigan pair who have performed in concert series throughout Michigan, as well as at universities in Iowa, Chicago, and New York, with their repertoire of evocative music from around the world. This course will begin with a presentation of music from Japan, Nigeria, and the Navajo Nation on October 3 in the Calvin chapel. Carolyn will play a fascinating collection of instruments from frame drum to Congas and Japanese Taiko drums. Both she and Rhonda will discuss their instruments, how they came to know and love these unique voices, and their musical journey together.

On October 10, Rhonda will continue our course with a mini-field trip to see and hear the various pipe organs on the Calvin campus. She will demonstrate and discuss the differences of sounds and construction of the organs in the university and seminary chapels, as well as the multiple organs in the Fine Arts Center.

Session 1: in the Calvin Chapel (not the Seminary)
Session 2: a walking tour to various organs in the University Chapel, Seminary Chapel, and Covenant Fine Arts Center Auditorium

Rhonda Sider Edgington is the organist and music director at Hope Church, and teaches organ at Calvin University, while traveling to perform regularly around the U.S. and in Europe. She is often commended for her innovative programming, colorful use of registrations, and exciting playing. Seven years spent studying, working and performing in Bremen, Germany (originally with a Fulbright scholarship), led to her passion for the repertoire and organs of 17th century Germany, as she worked closely with Professor Harald Vogel. Since returning to the U.S., she has expanded her focus to include newer works, especially highlighting women composers, and in collaborations with other musicians.
Carolyn Koebel is a professor, hospice musician, and music therapist who plays a wide variety of instruments, styles, and music from different cultures. She has been drumming since childhood, but fell in love with percussion of the world while studying ethnomusicology as an undergraduate. Her fieldwork research has taken her around the globe in search of traditional and indigenous drumming traditions from diverse cultures.

16-F2024 The Earliest Encounters with Jesus
2:15–3:30 p.m., 4 Thursdays, September 5–26
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $40

The gospels indicate that Jesus had a number of encounters with people before his large public ministry. In this class, we will look at four of these encounters: the calling of the first disciples, the miracle at Cana, the discussion with Nicodemus, and meeting the Samaritan woman. Each of these has a fascinating cultural context which unlocks their meaning. These stories are in the Gospel of John, so we will also link them to the larger purposes of the fourth gospel.

Subject: biblical studies

Gary M. Burge, Ph.D., is a recently retired professor of New Testament at Calvin Theological Seminary. He has written extensively on both the New Testament and the intersection of theology and history in modern Israel. His specialty is exploring the cultural context of the gospels, particularly the fourth gospel, about which he has written four books.

17-F2024 Lewis and Clark’s Outbound Journey: Seeking the Western Ocean
2:15–3:30 p.m., 3 Thursdays, September 5–19
In-person
Room: School of Business 103, $30

This course will follow the events involving the purchase of the Louisiana Territory and the designs of President Thomas Jefferson to explore the trans-Mississippi lands in the first few years of the nineteenth century. The formation of the Corps of Discovery, the roles of Meriwether Lewis and William Clark and their various recruits, and the preparations for the journey from St. Louis to the Pacific will be scrutinized in detail. The course concludes by tracing the timeline and intriguing events of the Corps of Discovery up the Missouri River, through a long winter, then across the Rocky Mountains and down the Columbia River to the Pacific Ocean (and that sentence just made it sound a lot quicker and smoother than it was). We’ll keep our eyes peeled for the unusual and remarkable facts and stories that truly set this journey apart as a pivotal moment in early American history.

Subject: history

Dr. Michael Stevens is a long-time teacher of American literature and an independent scholar, who has been based in Grand Rapids since 1997. He co-authored Wendell Berry and the Cultivation of Life (Brazos Press, 2008), and he is now working on a biography of Dead Ball Era slugger and Grand Rapids native Wally Pipp. His interest in the contexts of nineteenth-century American literature has led him into intensive research on Civil War history and the Lewis and Clark Expedition, though he only made it to the West Coast himself this past spring, as a middle-aged adventurer!

18-F2024 History of the National Parks: Part II (no pre-requisite for prior class)

3:45–5:00 p.m., 4 Thursdays, September 5–26
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $40

This course will continue to reveal the controversial, inspiring, and fascinating history behind America's National Parks and public lands. In this course, author, educator, and National Park adventurer Will De Man will dive deeper into the foundational people and places that have formed the National Park system. Highlights of the course include the role of various presidents in shaping the National Park Service and an exposé of the deep tension between the preservationist forces of the Parks and the extractive intentions of other federal agencies such as the Bureau of Reclamation.

This course will also highlight connections between historic conservation issues and their extension into current events. And, of course, scattered throughout may be the origin story of our favorite National Park! Though this course is a continuation of the previous course offered by Will De Man, attendance at that course is not necessary to enjoy and engage in this fascinating history.

Subject: geography, history

Will De Man teaches history at Grand Rapids Christian Middle School and is the author of A Short History of the National Parks: the Southeast. He runs the Instagram account @nationalparkhistory, where you can find educational content about America’s most prominent public lands. He lives in Grand Rapids with his wife and son, who are his outdoor adventure companions.

20-F2024 And I Thought I Knew You! The RCA and the CRC
10:00–11:15 a.m. Eastern Time, 4 Tuesdays, October 15–November 12 (No class Nov. 5)
Online
Room: Zoom, $40

We will examine the differences between the Reformed Church in America (RCA) and the Christian Reformed Church in North America (CRCNA). We have common roots but different habits. We have the same doctrines, but we treat them differently. We speak the same language but with different accents. We typically judge each other as defective versions of ourselves and fail to understand each other. This course illuminates how our distinctive habits, accents, outlooks, and disputes developed from our surprisingly different histories and contrasting missions. We will look at personalities, anecdotes, clichés, debates, conflicts, and even some old jokes. Our two denominations can be mirrors for each other. Our goal is not only mutual appreciation but also greater self-understanding.

10:00–11:15 a.m., 2 Tuesdays, November 12–19

In-person and online

Room: Seminary Auditorium, $20

The first session will focus on what the elected president and his staff will do to handle the complex international challenge that America faces relating to the Russian-Ukrainian war. A related topic will be the status of the “axis of evil” that supports the Russians in Ukraine and Hamas in Palestine / Israel. Will democracy survive this threat from the autocrats in Russia, Iran, North Korea and China? Is the U.S. ready for this struggle?

The second session will focus on three domestic challenges that our country faces. Will the majority of the two parties in the U.S. Congress begin to work together? Can our military strength be integrated with the moral and cultural values of our country? Can people of faith resist our country’s toxic ideological climate and build a healthier world?

In 1893, Feodor Protar moved onto Beaver Island, Michigan. He was 55 and a stranger to the islanders. Protar became the island’s beloved and revered folk doctor, fashioning medicines and poultices to treat people’s ills. He became known as the Saint of Beaver Island. Some acquaintances described him as “haunted, hunted, and desperate.” His past was a mystery to them. Today, we know that he left his wife in Riga, Latvia, abruptly and without notice. He immigrated to the States in 1874, eventually settling on Beaver Island.

The novel Island Medicine offers a plausible tale of Protar’s life, created from a blend of biographical research and literary imagination. The second protagonist, Elle Shaefer, is a twenty-first century professor of psychology. The two characters’ lives become energetically entwined to their mutual benefit. Elle is a fictional character. In this one-day class you will meet the saint and the psychologist.

28-F2024 Navigating Advanced Illness and End-of-Life Care
2:45–4:00 p.m., 2 Wednesdays, October 23–30
In-person
Room: Seminary 241, $20

Session 1: Navigating Advanced Illness: How to help loved ones get what they really need from the healthcare system. When a loved one is critically ill, battling serious illness or dealing with physical and cognitive losses, the challenges can feel overwhelming. Information is coming in fast and furious. What is the right choice; is there any choice at all? How can I help my loved one when this happens? In this session we will explore strategies to proactively prepare for such scenarios. We will learn how to have critical conversations with loved ones to understand their goals and the ways to advocate for them in a system that can feel challenging to navigate.

Session 2: There are a lot of myths in medicine. One suggests that science gives us answers, certainty, and guarantees. But our actual experience in medicine is often the opposite. Many patients turn to doctors and medicine looking for answers and instead are frustrated that answers are not readily forthcoming. We do not talk about uncertainty and the ways in which we might manage it.
This presentation, using a combination of lecture, art, and music, will challenge the expectation that medicine offers certainty and provide responses to uncertainty that participants can engage in their own lives. We will also discuss opportunities to live meaningfully in the midst of ubiquitous uncertainty.

29-F2024 Contextual Insights: Bringing Ancient Lands and Stories to Life
2:45–4:00 p.m., 4 Wednesdays, October 23–November 13
In-person and online
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $40

In this course we will journey to the land of the text to better understand God’s redemptive story in its original context. Context is everything, and to understand the Bible well, we must read it through the lenses of its original context (historical, cultural, geographical, visual, linguistic, and literary). Making use of maps and photographs, we will experience the land that formed the stage on which so many biblical events took place. Only when we first understand what it meant for the people back then can we truly understand and apply what it means for us today. Engaging the text in context will bring the Bible alive in a new way, giving its stories new dimensions and deeper meaning as we examine the places where biblical events took place — from the archaeological remains of Old Testament kingdoms to the locations of Jesus’ ministry. The aim of the course is that as we experience the original context, it will impact our relationship with Jesus, compelling us to live the way of Jesus more intentionally.

30-F2024 Rosie the Riveter

2:45–4:15 p.m., 1 Wednesday, October 16
In-person
Room: Seminary Auditorium, $10
(Due to overwhelming positive feedback from this presentation earlier in May, we are offering this course a second time.)

This presentation highlights the boldness, determination, creativity and bravery of American men AND women as they prepared for, and then valiantly fought in World War II. Spurred on by the message of Franklin Roosevelt’s “Arsenal of Democracy” speech, our speaker will share the incredible history of the Willow Run B-24 Bomber Plant and the teamwork of the powerful Detroit automotive industry. We will all cheer for the dramatic and vital roles played by women as they showed the nation that they were willing and able to fill the work force gaps caused by men going into military service. “We Can Do It’ became the rallying cry for millions of women who had, until this time period, never envisioned working on an industrial assembly line building the weapons of war. As a Tribute Rosie, our presenter will honor the women who are called “Original Rosies” because they worked “the line” during WWII. Under the auspices of the Veteran’s history project, their memories are being preserved because they are, indeed, veterans of the home front and their personal stories add depth and detail to our national narrative. You will be amazed, energized, and inspired by this chapter of American History.

33-F2024 Religion in America, Part III, 1850–1930 (no pre-requisite for prior classes)

2:15–3:30 p.m., 4 Thursdays, October 31–November 21

In-person and online

Room: Seminary Auditorium, $40

Continuing our series on American religious history, this course will cover the era in which the United States became a consolidated urban-industrial nation marked by high levels of European immigration. People of faith responded to the radical changes this entailed in markedly different ways. We will consider religion’s role in:

Session 1: The coming, conduct, and consequences of the Civil War, including the emergence of independent Black churches [1850–1880]

Session 2: The ‘new’ immigration of people from southern and eastern Europe, transforming Catholic and Jewish communities and rousing fears in the hearts of Protestants [1885–1915]

Session 3: The emerging divide between mainstream/ Liberal and evangelical/ fundamentalist Protestants [1875–1905]

Session 4: The rise of the progressive movement, the shattering impact of World War I, and the fierce culture wars of the 1920s [1900–1930]

Religious participation had never been higher, nor religious anxieties more acute, nor religion’s impact more diffuse than in this fascinating era.

Preceding the 150th anniversary trips, there are two May 2025 trips that are open now for registration.

The History and Beauty of Scotland, May 1–10, with Karin Maag. Tour the castles and countryside of Scotland while you follow in the footsteps of John Knox and the Scottish Reformation.

Heritage of Germany: From Luther and Bach to Dresden and Berlin, May 5–17, with Jim Bratt and daughter Suzanne Bratt. This tour itinerary will have strong musical components—particularly with J.S. Bach—as well as strong historical components.
Calvin celebrates its 150th anniversary during the 2025-2026 school year, and our travel program is joining the celebration by exploring 11 countries across six continents. Join the Calvin Alumni Association and Calvin Academy for Lifelong Learning (CALL) as we commemorate Calvin’s global reach with this exciting line-up of tours.

Grand Rapids Walking Tour, $15
The common theme of a Grand Rapids Walking Tour? A love for everything Grand Rapids ... its history, culture, entertainment, vibe, tastes, and exciting growth. It is the trifecta of exercise, education, and entertainment. We walk for about 60–90 minutes. We walk a little, gather at a site and talk, etc. The tour will begin in the lobby of the JW Marriott downtown.

Young President Ford
Wednesday, August 21
6:00 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Grand Rapids’ favorite son, Gerald R. Ford, the 38th President of the United States, is buried here beside his wife Betty, but he was not born here. In fact, he was not named Gerald R. Ford at birth. This tour will tell the tale of our humble civil servant as you visit actual places touched by “Junior” during his All-American youth—1913 through 1931—in old Grand Rapids. Experience an inspirational story of a young man who was raised in this great midwestern city to become a world leader. You will learn where he lived, played, worshipped, studied, and competed athletically. As a final stop, you will visit Gerald Ford’s tomb, and then salute his statue in front of his Presidential Museum and his last working office.

Indigenous Peoples of Michigan—Ziibiwing Trip to Mt. Pleasant, Cost $106
Monday, September 16, 2024, 8:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.

We will also take a guided tour of the facility, learn more about Indigenous culture from docents at the Center, and explore their outdoor garden. Finally, there will be time to browse in the gift shop, which includes handmade items made by people of the Chippewa Tribe. A boxed lunch provided by Calvin catering will be included.
River City Improv
Thursday, October 10, 2024, 7:00 p.m.–9:00 p.m.
Room: Calvin Seminary Auditorium, $15

Since its inception in 1993, River City Improv has been a cornerstone of entertainment in Grand Rapids. Comprised of Calvin alumni, this group believes in the unifying power of laughter, which has sustained their performances for over 30 years. As a local fixture, River City Improv offers evenings filled with spontaneous comedy, drawing inspiration from audience suggestions to create unforgettable scenes. Far from relying on crude or controversial humor, they embrace the belief that laughter is most genuine when shared in a welcoming and inclusive environment. Join them for a night of laughter and camaraderie, celebrating the rich tradition of improv in West Michigan. Following the performance there will be a delicious ice cream bar.

Lunch and the Matinee Performance of Handel’s Messiah at Calvin, cost TBD
Saturday, December 7, 2024, 1:00 p.m. lunch, 3:00 p.m. performance,
Covenant Fine Arts Center

(This 3-hour performance, plus intermission, and best seats in the house includes lunch, speaker, and reserved seating.) For over 100 years, the Calvin Oratorio Society has heralded the arrival of the Christmas season with performances of Handel’s Messiah. For many, the Messiah experience is more than just a performance. “They don’t just sing it as a piece of beautiful music, you can see the heart and soul in the music … They believe what they’re singing. They treat the concert as a form of worship,” Pearl Shangkuan said. The same is true for the audience: “No matter what is happening in my own life or in the world around me, Messiah always feels relevant and profound. This year’s performance will feature nearly the whole program in its entirety. Sean Ivory is back as conductor. The choir is comprised of students, staff, faculty, alumni, and other community members. Join us for a meaningful start to the Advent season. The lunch menu is to be determined and will include a plant-based option.

EGYPT: BEYOND THE PYRAMIDS
Karin Muller
Wednesday, November 6, 7:00 p.m.

This 2013 film explores some of the many faces of this complicated country and reveals a fundamentally kind and generous people. For three months, adventure filmmaker and author Karin Muller tripped alone across Egypt—living with Cairo’s garbage collectors, drinking tea with camel sellers, and fasting through the blistering heat of Islam’s Holy Month. Despite an attack by a raging mob in a village in the Nile delta that incurred temporary blindness and a permanent back injury, she would return to Egypt. The filmmaker will be joining us remotely, not in-person.

COLONIAL ISLANDS: GUADALUPE, MADEIRA, AND CUBA
Robert Rose
Tuesday, March 18, 7:00 p.m.

These mini films explore three colonial islands, focusing first on the French island of Guadeloupe. We will enjoy the beaches, food, and people of this lesser-known territory. Traveling to the Atlantic, we discover the magical group of volcanic islands known as Madeira, a Portuguese archipelago with a rugged and subtropical climate, clouded in misty forests, legendary wine, and seaside resorts. Finally, there is Cuba, with its complicated past, history of sanctions, and government oppression. Here we go undercover to explore the daily difficulties of life for the Cuban people and whether they have experienced change.

Bonus film only for season ticket holders. Tickets for this free matinee are included for all season ticket holders. These are pre-recorded films, and the filmmaker will not be joining us.

Our travels take us first to Bulgaria, a country with a vivid identity as a crossroads of the Balkans. We trace the country’s complex history, from ancient Thracian tombs to medieval Orthodox Christian monasteries to Soviet monuments. After intermission, we journey to Romania, stopping first at Bucharest, with its “Little Paris of the East” architecture and lingering reminders of a brutal communist dictator. Then we will head into Transylvania, where we’ll visit fortified churches, cobbled merchant towns like Sighișoara, and castles made famous by an imported German king and the real-life Dracula. Finally, we will explore Maramureș, where everyday life still feels like an open-air folk museum.
